When Trainline unveiled their trendy track-suit James captured this eye-catching image

James Linsell-Clark

Photographer | Cambridge

James' lifelong passion for photography developed after processing his first black and white film at the age of fifteen. Thereafter he graduated in Photography Video and Digital imaging, and has worked with an array of press agencies before joining SWNS in 2013. James is a master PR photographer who has a dexterous way with lighting, composition and people. His amicable character contributes to the good rapport he builds with those he photographs.
